Nancy Staub Laughlin

The Flowering Blossom, 30” x 43”, is my newest assemblage creation. In this newest work, I transition to flowering trees from the winter flurries you see below.

I was honored to be reviewed by Ann Williams, curator and journalist from Project High Art. The link to the website and review is HERE and the PDF version is HERE.

NANCY STAUB LAUGHLIN: CAPTURING BEAUTY THROUGH A UNIQUE ARTISTIC VISION

August 18, 2023

By Ann Williams

In the ever-evolving realm of contemporary art, certain individuals possess the remarkable ability to infuse their work with an unmistakable touch that sets them apart. One such artist is Nancy Staub Laughlin, whose journey into the world of art began with a BFA degree from Moore College of Art in Philadelphia, PA. With a career spanning several decades, Laughlin has established herself as a presence on the east coast art scene, leaving an indelible mark through her exhibitions, media recognition, and distinctive artistic approach.
