Carter Burden West Gallery

What I've been up to...

Welcome to the spring issue of my Newsletter. Spring is my favorite time of year... the magic of seeing the garden turn to such beauty amazes me every year. We are also blossoming as people, now able to have a somewhat back-to-normal life.

Upcoming show: I will be in a two-person exhibit in the West Gallery at the Carter Burden Gallery in New York (548 W. 28th St., #534) from May 27 to June 23. Several new works will be featured. (Above: one wall of the show.)

Two new magazine articles: I have had the honor of being featured in two important magazines this spring. Three works were published in the Catamaran Literary and Art Magazine Spring issue, and a long interview with eleven examples of my work appeared in the Sanctuary Magazine May issue which features professional women in their fields. See page 2 for links to the new articles and pictures of recent work.

A few quotes from other articles about me over the years...

“I have never seen work like this before—pastels used in such a dense fashion.”

— Ingrid Fox, exhibition catalogue

“Images that lodge themselves in our consciousness with a persistence that suggests a major talent at the height of her powers.”

— Ed McCormack, Gallery & Studio

“A projective sense captivates the viewer, as if he or she were drifting off into a dream state, or diving below the reflecting surface and suddenly and unpredictably reappearing above it, or even sideways to it..”

— Sam Hunter, critic and art historian

New Articles...

I was featured in the literature and art magazine Catamaran Spring issue. Three of my pieces were shown, along with a brief artist profile. Click HERE to see a PDF of the feature.

The Wave of Sparkle

Sanctuary

I was also the Featured Artist in the May issue of Sanctuary, an online magazine for women and their creative vision. Click HERE for the link to the article. Two of the works featured are shown below.
